PREPARE. REVIEW. EXPORT.

A consistent starting point for every draft.

Give officers a focused place to prepare warrant packets and incident reports, with the relevant templates and review steps close at hand.

---

01 Guided warrant preparation

Move through warrant type, court selection, target details, probable-cause narrative, review, and export in a structured workflow.

02 Court-specific document formats

Access a template library and prepare packets using available court formats. Build your agency setup around the documents your reviewers approve.

03 Structured report preparation

Organize incident information, prepare editable narratives, and create a draft for supervisor review.

OFFICER-CONTROLLED DRAFTS

The officer supplies the facts. Your designated reviewers make the decisions.

ONE PRODUCT. A SCOPE THAT FITS YOU.

Bring your process. Make it your workspace.

The agency offering starts with your requirements. Use the demo to define what should be configured for your team.

Your identity

Agency branding, officer terminology, and case-number conventions.

Your documents

Warrant formats, report fields, court templates, and reference materials.

Your review process

Reviewer roles, document handoffs, and any proposed routing needs.

Your rollout

Access, storage, training, and support requirements agreed in the proposal.

A relevant demo for your team

Sheriff's offices: patrol, investigations, and county court formats.

Police departments: department documents and supervisor review.

Specialized agencies: jurisdiction-specific forms and requirements.

FROM DEMO TO DEPLOYMENT

See Warrant Hub through your agency's eyes.

Start with a tailored demonstration. Leave with a clear understanding of the configuration, rollout, and pricing your agency needs.

1 Discover

Review your users, document types, courts, and current process.

2 Scope & configure

Agree the templates, branding, setup, timeline, and support terms.

3 Validate & launch

Evaluate fictional cases with your designated reviewers before operational use.
